This little game is so simple but so fun.

The objective is to keep the little dude off you as long as possible while your points build up. He is VERY determined to get you and has various amounts of tricks up his sleeve, so watch out!

Move your mouse around the page and try to avoid being caught as the angry little bugger zips around the screen, but stay inside the border or your points will start counting from zero again.

Once your points are at a respectable level, this game is guaranteed to raise your pulse a bit with the tension rapidly building.

The game is very rewarding when you survive one of his many weapons, My favourite is the homing missile he sends after you.
